Good and Bad

The record of the Congress which adjourned Saturday, is, on the whole, a favorable one.

It passed the Child Labor Amendment to the Constitution which, when ratified by three-fourths of the states, will represent the greatest advance in American legislation made in many years. This Congress passed the Soldiers' Bonus Bill and added the Japenese exclusion clause to the Immigration Bill. In both these measures it showed a fearless independence of attempted influence by the President.

In an extraordinary series of Congressional investigations it unearthed carelessness or crookedness in many high circles and furnished the impetus for widespread political reforms at Washington, of which the shakeups in President Coolidge's Cabinet are but the beginning.

In two respects the very independence of Congress played it false. It neglected farmers' aid legislation, It disregarded the masterful plan for tax revision devised by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. Instead, it passed its own ill-advised and inexpert tax bill, certain to still further stimulate the flight of capital from business enterprise to tax-exempt securities.

It was radical in the one direction in which the people insist upon conservatism. They want their cash drawer conservatively handled.

By the time the Congress reassembles in December, its members will have had opportunity to observe the unfortunate effect of their tax measure, and will probably be ready to listen to expert advice on the subject. — N. Y. American.

The people return thanks for those Democrats who aided by independent Republicans revised the income tax from the bottom, thereby relieving the middle class of burdensome taxes and requiring the immensely rich to continue the payment of their just share of the Government's expenses.

The President's crew will be full of crow when his campaign of endorsement of a Republican Congress ends. The people are to be congratulated on the independence of their representatives.

Primary Rules

Editor The News:

In several editorials recently in your paper, you have urged all who participate in the Democratic primary to go to the polls and vote for Mr. Lee, Pettyjohn, Kennier, and Williams, the nominees of the Democratic primary. The question with me is have we had a Democratic primary? What is a Democrat? Is one who votes the Republican ticket in a national election a Democrat or a Republican? If he is a Republican, then I claim we have had no Democratic primary. It is common rumor that one or two of the so-called Democratic nominees usually votes the Republican ticket in national elections. This being true, I take the position that no one is bound by the so-called Democratic primary, even though he partic pated in it but is free to vote for whom he prefers.

Square Deal.

R. A. ANDREWS

Any man who is qualified to vote in a Democratic primary is qualified to be candidate in that primary.

Any man becomes qualified to vote in a Democratic primary who in the general election next preceding the primary voted the Democratic ticket.

The general election next preceding the Lynchburg councilmanic primary of 1924 was for state officers and it may be fairly assumed that each of the candidates offering for councilmanic nomination this year voted the Democratic ticket in the state election held subsequent to the national election of 1920. For example, a citizen who voted for Harding in 1920 and for Trinkle in 1921, thereby qualified himself to vote in the primary this year, and hence to offer for nomination in that primary. So much for the party status of the regular Democratic candidates for the council—it affords no room for escape from the what we conceive to be the moral obligation assumed by voters who sought and were permitted to enjoy the right to vote in the Lynchburg primary held a few weeks since.—Lynchburg News.

The position of the News is law, but it is not law in Appomattox, either in the court of Justice or in the party council. Appomattox citizens were denied the right to vote in the primary on the pretext that they descended from Republican stock, and the fact that Republicans voted for Democratic nominees for Congress in the preceding election did not give them the right to vote in the primary in Appomattox according to the rule of the party authorities subsequently upheld by the court. We are glad the News takes the position held to by this paper in that matter. The question now is, what is Democratic party law?

STATE CAPITAL

War Memorial Body Ready For Work.

Richmond.—

Formation of the War Memorial Commission appointed for by act of the 1924 General Assembly was completed when Governor Trinkle announced the appointment of the three men who will sit with members of the Legislature on the body. Adjutant-General William Wilson Sale, John J. Wicker, Jr., State commander of the American Legion, and Charles E Dyer, of Jewell Ridge, Tazewell County, vice-commander, were named as the Governor's three appointees. Mr. Dyer will be commander of the legion in Virginia next fall, when Commander Wicker's term of office expires.

The bill passed by the General Assembly provides for the appointment of a commission of nine members, three from the House, three from the Senate and three to be appointed by the Governor, to decide on a suitable type of nonsectilitarian war memorial, advertise for designs and recommend its choice to the next General Assembly.

Senator Morgan R. Mills, of Richmond; Senator C. C. Vaughan, of Franklin, and Senator A. B. Barksdale, of Lynchburg, represent the upper branch of the Legislature on the commission. The House of Delegates appointed the following members: W. A. Wright, of Tappahannock; J. R. Shephard, Jr., of Richmond, and E. W. Milstead, of Newport News. Barksdale, Wright and Sheppard are World War veterans.

Stills Are Captured; Operators Elusive

Moonshiners are still doing business in various sections of Virginia, but they are said to be exercising unusual vigilance in the operations of their establishments. Sentries are being posted on the hillsides to watch the approach of officers. R. Frank Dotson, of Galax, conducted a raiding party and captured a fifty-gallon still and other apparatus. Before the officers reached the still rifle shots told them the moonshiners were informed, and the operators of the still managed to get away. The owner of the place, Edward Billings, was arrested and bailed.

J. T. Haney, of South Boston, reports the arrest of Henry C. Hudson and John Watkins, of Clover, charged with transporting eleven and a half gallons of liquor in an auto, the liquor and machine being confiscated and the men bailed in the sum of $1,000. He also captured B. C. Conner, of Scottsburg, and Will Connor, of South Boston, on charges of making liquor, both being bailed.

F. T. Taylor, of Staunton, arrested Walter C. Shiflett, of Nortonsville, who is said to have had fifty-five gallons of liquor in his possession. Taylor also arrested J. M. Wheeler, of Greenwood, on the charge of transporting liquor and having three stills —one fifty-gallon, two of twenty-five gallons each and a car. He was bailed.

James Spence, of Gretchen, Rockingham county, was caught with 105 gallons of liquor in his possession, Officer W. T. Harrold making the arrest. Bruce was bailed in the sum of $500.

J. S. Mullins, of Clintwood, reported the arrest of Walter Dameron and Jeff Stone for having stills in their possession.

W. C. Shroder, of Clayville, after making five trips—two of them at night—captured a 150-gallon wood and metal still in Powhatan county, with 500 gallons of mash. The operator failed to show up, the officer saying he believes they were tipped off.

Health Insurance for the Whole Family

CHEVROLET

Without counting the daily utility of a Chevrolet for going back and forth to work, shopping or taking the children to school, etc., its value in saving doctor's bills, broadening your mental horizon and keeping the whole family physically fit, amounts to more than the cost of the car and its upkeep. It is more of an essential to the modern family than anything else but a home. Chevrolet meets the requirements of the modern family because it is economical to buy and maintain, because of its excellent appearance and riding comfort, because it can be depended upon, and because it is so easy to drive that any member of the family can use it.
